Explanations

SAMPLE

1. What is the first Greek-letter name used by ADPI?

A. Alpha Delta Phi

B. Alpha Beta Psi

C. Phi Alpha Delta

D. Delta Phi Alpha

The name Alpha Delta Pi is the identifier ADPi uses, built from the three Greek letters chosen by the founders. The first Greek-letter designation for the sorority is this exact trio: Alpha, Delta, and Pi, which is why memorizing Alpha Delta Pi is key. The ending letter Pi distinguishes ADPi from other groups that end with Phi, so Alpha Delta Phi would not be the correct form for this sorority. If you ever see a version ending in Phi, it refers to a different organization, not Alpha Delta Pi.

2. What describes the purpose of scholarships from the ADPi Foundation?

A. They guarantee a full ride scholarship.

B. They provide financial assistance for education and leadership development.

C. They fund social events for the chapter.

D. They offer housing stipends.

Scholarships from the ADPi Foundation are designed to ease educational costs while also supporting leadership development. They aim to help sisters pursue further schooling and seize opportunities that build leadership skills, academic achievement, and service. They aren't meant to guarantee a full-ride, cover housing costs, or fund social events; instead, they provide financial support for education and experiences that cultivate growth as a student and a leader within the sorority and community.

3. Which uppercase Greek letter corresponds to the name theta?

A. A

B. Θ

C. K

D. E

Theta is the uppercase Greek letter that matches the name theta, written as Θ. The other options correspond to different letters: Alpha as A, Kappa as K, and Epsilon as E.

4. Name one major fundraising event commonly used by ADPi and similar organizations.

A. Chapter-level fundraising events for RMHC or foundation grants (specific events vary by chapter).

B. Annual bingo night for athletic scholarships only.

C. Secret procurement of donors.

D. Mandatory dues collection.

The main idea is that chapters organize their own large fundraising efforts to support the sorority's philanthropic focus, often directing funds to Ronald McDonald House Charities or the sorority's foundation. These chapter-level events are the primary way ADPi chapters mobilize members and the community to raise significant support, and they can take many forms depending on the chapter and campus. The important point is that the fundraising is locally led by the chapter and tied to RMHC or the foundation, which is why this option is the best fit. Other choices don't align with ADPi's typical philanthropy or describe fundraising activities, such as dues collection, as events, or suggest unethical practices.

5. Which uppercase Greek letter corresponds to the name zeta?

A. A

B. E

C. Z

D. K

Zeta is the sixth letter of the Greek alphabet, and its uppercase form is Z, which resembles a Latin Z. Among the given symbols, A stands for Alpha, E stands for Epsilon, Z stands for Zeta, and K stands for Kappa. Therefore, the symbol that represents zeta is Z. Recognizing Greek uppercase letters by their shapes helps connect the name to its written form, rather than guessing from familiar Latin letters.

6. Which national organization is ADPi a member of?

A. National Panhellenic Conference (NPC)

B. Panhellenic Recruitment Alliance

C. Interfraternity Council

D. National Council of Administrators

ADPi belongs to the National Panhellenic Conference (NPC). This umbrella organization brings together most national women's fraternities to coordinate shared policies, standards, and services—especially around recruitment, governance, and inter-sorority cooperation. Being part of NPC means ADPi participates in consistent rules for recruitment across campuses and works with other NPC member sororities on issues like academic expectations, hazing prevention, and expansion. The other groups listed aren't the national body that governs NPC sororities—one is not a recognized umbrella for women's fraternities, another governs male fraternities, and the last isn't the national organization for this purpose.

7. Which uppercase Greek letter corresponds to the English name 'omicron'?

A. Ο

B. Τ

C. Ρ

D. Π

Omicron is the Greek letter that represents the short "o" sound, and its uppercase form is Ο, which looks just like the Latin capital letter O. That visual match is why it's identified with the English name omicron. The other symbols shown correspond to different Greek letters with different names and sounds: Τ is tau (t), Ρ is rho (r) and looks like a Latin P, and Π is pi (p) and looks like a gate. Also, keep in mind omega is Ω, a different letter.

8. Which capitalization of the Alpha Delta Pi Executive Office address is correct?

A. 1386 Juan Ponce de Leon Avenue NE, Atlanta, Georgia 30306

B. 1386 Juan Ponce de Leon Avenue NE Atlanta, Georgia 30306

C. 1386 juan ponce de leon avenue NE atlanta, georgia 30306

D. 1386 Juan Ponce De Leon Avenue NE, Atlanta, Georgia 30306

Capitalization and punctuation in an organization address follow standard U.S. mailing style: capitalize proper nouns and street type, keep language elements like de lowercase if they're part of a well-known name, and use commas to separate the street from the city and the city from the state. The correct format uses Juan Ponce de Leon Avenue with the de kept lowercase and Avenue capitalized, includes the directional suffix NE, and places a comma after the street portion (NE,) before the city. Then it lists the city Atlanta, the state Georgia, and the ZIP code 30306 in the standard City, State ZIP layout. This matches how addresses are typically written and ensures clear separation between components. The other options fail because one omits the comma after the directional suffix, another uses lowercase city/state, and the last capitalizes De, which isn't standard in this name.

9. When and where was Alpha Delta Pi founded?

A. 1848 at Wesleyan College in Macon, Georgia

B. 1851 at Wesleyan College in Macon, Georgia

C. 1865 at Wesleyan College in Macon, Georgia

D. 1851 at Emory College in Oxford, Georgia

Alpha Delta Pi was founded on May 15, 1851, at Wesleyan College in Macon, Georgia. This specific date and place are the established details in ADPi's history, reflecting the formation by four young women who created the sorority there. The other options mix an incorrect year or location, so they don't match the documented founding story. Therefore, the pairing of 1851 with Wesleyan College in Macon is the accurate one.

10. Name two core values of Alpha Delta Pi.

A. Leadership and Service

B. Scholarship and Character

C. Sisterhood

D. Sisterhood and Scholarship

Two core values emphasized by Alpha Delta Pi are sisterhood and scholarship. Sisterhood captures the lifelong bonds, support, and mutual care among members that create a strong, nurturing network within the sorority. Scholarship highlights commitment to academic excellence and personal growth, encouraging members to strive for high standards in their studies. Together, these two values reflect ADPi's emphasis on balancing meaningful relationships with intellectual achievement. While leadership and service are also important parts of the organization, pairing sisterhood with scholarship identifies two foundational ideals the sorority consistently promotes.
